

Linguistic Society of Hawai'i
Language Endangerment and Conservation Symposium

Languages

March 10 – 14, 2008

Speaker:

Peter K. Austin

Märit Rausing Chair in Field Linguistics, SOAS,
University of London
Director, Endangered Languages Academic Programme

Dr. Austin is a renowned expert in Endangered Languages. His research interests cover descriptive, theoretical and applied linguistics. He has extensive fieldwork experience on Australian Aboriginal languages and Austronesian languages spoken on Lombok and Sumbawa islands, eastern Indonesia. He received his Ph.D. from the Australian National University.

Reception

Monday, Mar 10th, 5:00 pm-6:30 pm, Garden Level, East-West
Center Imin Conference Center

Department Talk

'Current trends in language documentation'

Tuesday, Mar 11th, 12:00 pm-1:15 pm, St. John Hall 11

Public Lecture

'Survival of languages in the 21st century'

Wednesday, Mar 12th, 12:00 pm-1:15 pm, Keoni Auditorium,
East-West Center Imin Conference Center

Student Workshop

'Training for language documentation - the SOAS experience'

Friday, Mar 14th, 3:00 pm-5:00 pm, Webster Hall 114

Sponsored by:

Center for Southeast Asian Studies • College of Languages, Linguistics, and Literature • Diversity and Equity Initiative at the University of Hawai'i • East-West Center • National Foreign Language Resource Center • Student Activity and Program Fee Board

Contact: Wen-Wei Han <wenwei@hawaii.edu> or Dan X. Hall <danx@hula.net>

Endangered